KENTUCKY COMES TO THE FRONT IN SOUTH'S FARMING

Increases Number of County Agents, Rapid Development in Junior Club Work, and Experiment Station Program Promoted.

Kentucky has made more rapid progress during the past year in farm extension work than any other of the fifteen Southern states, according to a statement issued by Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky and director of the extension work in the state.

The most rapid development has been recorded in junior agricultural club work, a 400 per cent increase having been made in this form of work during the year. This was by far the greatest growth made by any of the Southern states, Dean Cooper said.

In addition, the state was the only one of the Southern group to maintain the status of her county agent work, an increase of more than one-third in the number of agents employed having been made. A slight increase also was made in the number of home demonstration agents employed to carry on extension work with farm women of the state. Most of the states have lost ground in this form of work, according to information received by the dean.

By reason of the condition of farm business in general and the well-planned program which Kentucky's county agents are mapping out for their respective districts, those agents are more valuable than ever before to farmers of the state," Dean Cooper said. "Practically any farmer can make money in prosperous times, whereas a systematic program is necessary in times such as Kentucky farmers are now experiencing. It is the continuous doing of the little things that will build up the agricultural status of the state."

Kentucky farmers also are using the representatives sent out from the experiment station to good advantage, according to the statement the demand for these workers being so great that all requests cannot be filled. Because of the growth of this phase of the work and the steady demand for specialists in different lines of farm work, it is necessary to route them through a separate office in order to fill the most urgent demands, the dean said.

CONTRACT BREACH IS CHARGED IN SUIT

Sellers of Adams County Land Ask Lien on Mason County Property of Buyers in Suit in Federal Court.

A suit to recover $3,466.19 on a contract for the sale of land was filed Wednesday in the United States District Court, Covington, by Marion Dunlap of Washington, C. H., O., against William R. and Lucy Brierly of Sardis, Ky.

The petition states that Mr. and Mrs. Brierly entered into a contract on October 24, 1919, with Dunlap for the purchase of a certain tract of land owned by the latter in Adams county, Ohio, for $16,920. Several months later Dunlap executed the deeds for the land, which the defendants refused to accept, he says. They were also to pay him $530.75 for the crops on the lands.

Dunlap entered a mandamus suit in the Common Pleas Court, Adams county, to compel the defendants to fulfill their contract and obtained a judgment. The defendants appealed the case to the Circuit Court of Appeals in the Fourth Judicial District, which court sustained the decision of the lower court.

The Sheriff sold the lands for $9,850 and issued an execution on the defendants for the difference between the sale and contract price. The execution was returned marked "No property found." The plaintiff asks the Federal court to cite the defendants for a hearing, judgment for $8,466.19 and a lien on 191 acres of land owned by the defendants at Sardis, Ky.

COURT DOCKET TO BE SET ON SATURDAY

BAND MAKING THOUSANDS OF FRIENDS AT BLUEGRASS FAIR

Lexington and Central Kentucky People Treating Members of Boys' Band Royally on Trip.

The Lexington Herald Thursday says: One of the most remarkable musical organizations in the country, the Maysville Boys' Band is making thousands of friends at Central Kentucky by its concert at the Blue Grass Fair this week. The band came here from Columbus, Ohio, where it played at the Ohio State Fair.

Now cardinal dress uniforms, worn for the first time at Governor's Day at the Ohio fair, attracted attention whenever seen on the streets or at the fair grounds. The "Man of War" march, written by George D. Barnard, formerly with Sousa's Band, was played here for the first time, and is winning many encores.

The boys during their stay here have been given the privileges of the Country Club and enjoy swimming every morning. They also are guests of the Lexington Club. Thursday morning they will be entertained by the So Good Candy Company.

The boys were trained by merchants of Maysville. Any money left over after expenses have been paid will be distributed Christmas among the band members, according to J. Barbour Russell, prominent Maysville merchant who acts as manager. A. L. Glascock, Democratic nominee for Mason county judge, is president of the board of directors for the band.

Concerts are given at the fair every afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and every night at 7 o'clock.

Secretary Ken Walker, secretary of the Fair Association, has agreed to give free admittance to members of the Boy Scout band, now being formed, to attend the concert Friday afternoon, on condition that they meet Professor Carl Lampert, the director, and Scout Executive Carter Haley at 2 o'clock at the gate Friday afternoon.

BURGLAR IS CAUGHT IN ACT IN AUGUSTA

Midnight Marauders Surprised While At Work and Mere Boy Captures One of Three Robbers.

Three men presumably from Newport, broke into the Turner restaurant, near the Augusta depot, Tuesday morning about 1 o'clock. While engaged in the robbery, Eugene Sayers, the seventeen year old son of William Sayers, passed along in front of the store, and seeing the men, went home, armed himself and came back. He stepped inside Mrs. Harlan Clift's yard and the dog made so much noise that he was forced to speak to it which aroused the burglars, who came out and started to run. Young Sayers fired upon them and one man fell, the other two escaped.

The captured man was not shot, but fell skimming his knee, which accounted for the report that he had been struck by a bullet.

He was placed in the Augusta jail and gave his name as Alvin Best, aged 23 years, son of Lon Best.

Very little was taken from the store, just a few pennies from the cash drawer.

BRITISH YIELD TO IRISH, BUT BAR SECESSION

New Conference Is Sought By Lloyd George With Head of Irish Republics But Is It Nearly Stated That Empire Must Be Intact.

London, Sept. 8. — The British Cabinet has invited Eamon de Valera, Irish Republican leader, to send delegates to a conference with the Cabinet Ministers at Inverness September 20, according to the Daily Mail's in-house correspondent, who adds:

"Only one condition is imposed — namely, the understanding that Ireland must remain within the empire."

The communication to Mr. de Valera, according to this dispatch, asks for an early reply and points out the apparent uselessness of conducting negotiations by a further exchange of notes.

In order to allay any fears regarding Ulster the decision that Northern Ireland must not in any circumstances be coerced was reaffirmed by the Ministers.

Dealing with the Cabinet meeting the Daily Mail says:

"The Premier told the Ministers that he regarded the situation as grave and critical and he was convinced that a further interchange of notes was useless."

"One Minister, who had been in personal contact with Sinn Fein opinion, said he was informed that it was the real intention of its leaders to secure a plebiscite of the Irish people after a further exchange of notes and to insure that such plebiscite resulted in a mandate for a conference."

INVESTIGATE MOUNDS.

BAND'S MUSIC BEYOND EXPECTATION, SAYS MR. SHAW

Former Secretary of Agriculture of Ohio, Praises Music of the Boys' Band.

The following letter is from N. E. Shaw, editor of the National Stockman and Farmer, who was Secretary of Agriculture of Ohio and contracted with the local band for the Ohio State Fair:

"Dear Mr. Russell: Although the management of the Ohio State Fair passed out of my hands July 1st, I was nevertheless very much interested in its success this year and especially in the Maysville Boys' Band which I had engaged."

"While I was expecting much from the boys, I must write you to say that their music was far beyond my expectations, and their gentlemanly bearing and enthusiasm was a splendid asset to the fair."

"I am proud to have arranged for their first engagement at the Ohio State Fair and hope that they may have many return engagements if they so desire."

"Appreciating your own efforts, and with every good wish, I am, Yours very truly,

"THE NATIONAL STOCKMAN AND FARMER, E. N. SHAW, Ohio Editor."

CITIZENS GUARD ILLINOIS TOWNS AGAINST THREATS

Fear That Miners Will March Upon Two Illinois Mining Towns Cause Citizens to Take Up Arms as Guards.

Elizabethtown, Ill., Sept. 8.—Citizens of Elizabethtown and Rosiclare were on guard today against threatened march of 800 striking miners on the two cities.

The miners, massed 12 miles from here, were said to have decided to advance toward the two towns today. All night armed guards patrolled roads leading to Elizabethtown, prepared to repel any attempt to enter the town. Nearly every man bore has been armed and is ready to aid deputy sheriffs in resisting the miners.

The miners quit work about a year ago. They were ejected from company houses and have had frequent clashes with mine guards and deputies.

All telephone wires leading to Elizabethtown and Rosiclare were cut today. Miners claimed they were cut on orders of mine operators, while mine guards said they were cut by strikers. The miners gathered near Karbers Ridge. Residents there estimated they had been gathering 100 recruits a day.

COMMERCIALIZED SPORT.

An encouraging sign is the changing attitude of the press toward highly commercialized sport. The papers are coming to the conclusion they have been giving away millions of dollars' worth of advertising to boost box office receipts for promoters who have no special regard for the public. So long as the papers believed they were offering news that the public really demanded they were perhaps justified in giving extended mention as they did. But with grave doubts arising as to the wisdom of giving such quantities of space to certain sport, with consequent crowding out of matter more directly related to the public welfare, the papers are coming to the position that a change should be made.

The recent prize fight at Jersey City was made a great financial success only because the newspapers gave column after column of space to preliminary mention of it. Probably $5,000,000 worth of free publicity was given about the country. All for what? If the papers had not given this publicity the fight would have attracted little more attention than hundreds of events about which no excitement exists. Was anybody benefited except the promoters? Not that anybody knows of.

Would it not have been a good deal better to have devoted this space to something of real benefit to the public? We believe the Chicago Tribune has the right idea.

Declaring that an active doubt existed as to the value of professional baseball in American life, the Tribune has announced on its editorial page that it had curtailed its baseball reports in favor of other sports, particularly amateur games.

"Amateur sports seldom produce the ability of professional sports, but they produce sound citizenry."

This to our notion is sound sense. We believe it will be approved by the great majority of the people of the country.—Keweenaw Daily Star-Courier.

KEEPING SUNDAY.

Agitation for a stricter observance of Sunday is a natural result of the war. After every great human struggle, the spirit asserts itself. Throughout the war, spiritual values counted for more than shot and shell. When peace came, people returned to materialism with all the impetus of their new freedom from the conflict. Now, however, the reaction from the hard egotism of material competition, intensified by war hatreds, has begun. The Sunday observance movement is the result.

It is controlled by narrow-minded adherents of blue laws, the agitation will fail. But, if enlightened and inspired leaders feel their way carefully, they will win. It would be a national calamity if American Sundays became no more than periods of recuperation for intensified struggle for gold in the week to come. Civilizations controlled by like purposes have always failed and are now buried in the dust. Man does not live by bread alone.

Compulsory church attendance and obligatory religious observances are not needed to enforce a spiritual respect for Sunday. They would have the opposite effect. But, Sunday should be more than a holiday. It can be made to rest the body and yet give an ever useful reminder that the body is not all.

Man craves an appeal to the spiritual. The world is ripe for a new statement of old spiritual problems, with modern answers.

WONDERFUL BIRDS!

An expedition was sent to one of the Southern states of America to observe the recent eclipse of the sun.

The day before the event one of its members said to an old darky belonging to the house where he was staying: "Tom, if you will watch your chickens tomorrow morning you'll find that they'll all go to roost at 11 o'clock."

Tom was skeptical, but, sure enough, at the time predicted the sky darkened and the chickens retired to roost. The negro, amazed beyond measure, sought out the scientist.

"Professor," he asked, "how long ago did you know dem chickens would go to roost?"

"About a year ago," he replied with a smile.

"Well, if dat don't beat all! Why, professor, a year ago dem chickens wa'n't even hatched!"—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

ON THE FARM
IN KENTUCKYWELL-HOUSED FOWL LAYS THE EGGS CIRCULAR SAYS.

If the feeding and breeding conditions are correct egg production will be proportional to the comfort of the hen, according to a new circular on poultry housing which has just come off the press and is being distributed from the College of Agriculture to interested farmers. The five essentials of a good poultry house are plenty of fresh air, sunlight, dryness, freedom from drafts and durability, according to the publication. The circular contains plans, specifications and bills of material for different kinds of poultry houses and points out that many farm poultry houses can be remodeled easily so as to make them satisfactory.

The new publication is well illustrated to show the important features of poultry house remodeling and building and also contains details of interior arrangement of equipment, foundations, walls and roofs. It was written by J. B. Kelley, head of the farm engineering department and J. H. Martin, in charge of the College Poultry work. It may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

GRAVES FARMERS SHOW INTEREST IN POULTRY.

By means of 11 poultry culling demonstrations recently held in Graves county, farmers of that community not only learned how to tell the looper from the heavy-laying hen but also obtained helpful information on a number of poultry problems with the result that interest in this phase of farming has been increased, according to a report from County Agent B. H. Mitchell. A total of 304 poultry raisers attended the demonstrations which were conducted by Mr. Mitchell in cooperation with the extension division of the College of Agriculture. Many of those who attended agreed to cull their own flocks and seven of them will build new poultry houses. More than 70 circulars on the feeding and care of poultry were distributed to interested persons. Better flocks over the entire county are expected to result from the work.

about two hours before being spread out to dry. A longer period is apt to result in injury to the seed. It is best to treat the seed just before sowing, according to the recommendations made. This treatment is the same as the bluestone or copper sulphate treatment which is used in some parts of the state.

WEBSTER FARMERS PLAN
COOPERATIVE SHIPPING.

Plans have been started by Webster county farmers for the organization of a cooperative livestock shipping association, according to D. G. Card, extension specialist in marketing from the College of Agriculture who is co-operating with those interested in perfecting the project. A committee has already been appointed to go over suggestions for a constitution and by-laws and it is expected that the association will be permanently formed in the near future. Officers at the present time are D. C. Luck, president, and Hume Mahurin, secretary. The association will probably have headquarters at Ontown.

RYE SOWN ON HARE FIELDS WOULD MAKE MORE PASTURE.

Despite the fact that the normal area of pasture in Kentucky is nearly 5,000,000 acres much livestock is compelled to exist on scant rations because of poor pasture soils and periodical dry spells, according to soils specialists. This condition could be remedied for a period of several weeks during the fall and early spring and the pasture acreage increased by at least 3,000,000 acres by seeding rye in the corn and tobacco fields of the state, according to R. E. Stephenson, soils field agent of the College of Agriculture.

Many farmers in the state are first realizing the importance of this crop as a late fall and early spring pasture, reports from one county indicating that rye acreage there will be doubled this fall. Pasturing in winter may be done provided the ground is not too soft, Mr. Stephenson said. A Todd county farmer has reported that the increased milk production which he obtained by placing his cows on rye pasture was highly profitable. Aside from its value for pasturing a rye cover crop on corn and tobacco fields affords the soil protection from erosion and the leaching away of fertility during the winter.

SHORT COURSE DETAILS
GIVEN IN NEW BULLETIN.

Details of the short course in practical agriculture to be offered by the College of Agriculture at Lexington during the coming winter are contained in a new bulletin which has just come off the press and which is being distributed free to interested persons. The course will start October 31 and end February 25, 1922, with Christmas holidays from December 16 to January 2. The course will be divided into two terms, the first consisting of seven weeks before the holidays and the second of eight weeks following the holidays, according to the publication. Students may take one or both of the courses which will include instruction in practically all phases of farm subjects from farm crops to animal diseases. No entrance examinations are required for enrollment in the courses, the new publication is illustrated to show different phases of the work given in the short course students and may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington.

New York Letter

by
Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — Mrs. Fannie Zimet, of Yonkers, was unfortunate in having a good-looking judge hear her case. She was arrested for throwing dust and sand from a handbag into the faces of three young men who passed her way. She explained that they were all handsome men. The judge, being himself in that prejudiced-against class naturally refused to consider her argument valid, and remanded her for examination into her sanity.

—NY—
The Stadium where New York's open-air concerts are given, is to be made still larger and more beautiful before another season comes. Fifty thousand people, an average of over 7,000 a performance, heard symphony concerts there every week during this past summer and demonstrated the importance of the institution. There will be 2,000 chairs next summer instead of 1,000 and a consequently smaller number of the audience will have to group themselves on the ground and rocks rising above the field. "What we have done this year is but a taste of what we will do next year," said Arthur Judson, manager. "We have tried programs of every kind and we have found that people want the best and most serious music."

Langorous Spain has succumbed to American snuff in its fashions — of dancing as well as of dress — according to travelers who arrived the other day on a Spanish mail steamer. Just when we are being told to make our skirts fuller and longer in imitation of the Spanish customs, they are wearing them shorter and straighter in America. American movies are the reason, according to these tourists. They have fascinated the señoritas with flapper's clothes and jazz dance steps. The New York double shuffle has usurped the place of the fandango, they declare, and — final blow — they are cutting off those elaborately coiled tresses into regular Greenwich Village "bobs."

Spirits! Spirits! It is isn't one kind making trouble, it's another. For the first six years of married life, everything wet fine in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene L. Lowe, according to the husband. Then Mrs. Lowe took up spiritualism. That was all right. Her time was her own and he didn't mind if she did spend some of it in communication with people he could neither see nor hear. But when she got to consulting a spirit called Red Feather and another she knew as Little Flower, about household affairs, the fun was on. First thing, they told her to make him wash all the dishes. She insisted that she had to obey. She did. So did he. Then he lost his temper one day over too many household tasks and the same busy spirits advised her to leave him. She obeyed once more and this time he decided to see what a good, material court would say for aid side of the case. So Judge Wasservogel is asked to take the spir-

Jewelry is one of the newest occupations into which women are going in rather large numbers here in New York. The fashion of wearing elaborate settings of semi-precious and even imitation stones and the discovery that America can make those elaborate settings as well as Europe, is responsible for the suddenly increased opportunities in that line. Women seem to have a particular aptitude as well as taste for the work, according to the manufacturers, and a considerable portion of the entire artistic feminine population of the city is turning to it.

It might appear that if one had to lose one leg of his best trousers, he might as well lose both; but such is not necessarily the case. For instance, the other night a burglar entered the room of Samuel Herszkowitz and grabbed the trousers of the sleeping man. But just as he was disappearing through the window, holding the trousers by one leg, Mr. Herszkowitz waked and grabbed the other. They pulled for fifteen minutes and the fight was a draw—the robber got away with one leg and the rightful owner held the other safe in his grasp. AND — there is the real story — the leg Herszkowitz held was the one with $50 in its pocket and the other pocket was empty.

HOW TO GROW OLD GRACEFULLY

That Art Is Taught in "Milestones" Which Covers Three Generations.

"How to grow old gracefully—and quickly," might be the title of a book written by Alice Hollister and Mary Alden, appearing in the new Goldwyn picture "Milestones," which comes to the Washington theater, Saturday.

Within a few days they have to change from women of 1865 to women of 1910. Lined faces and grey hair and stooped shoulders must somehow be attained. This is the first time Alice Hollister has essayed an old lady part though she has had wide experience both on stage and screen.

Miss Alden, however, made one of her biggest successes in an old lady part—that in Ibsen's "Ghosts." She copied her make-up in "Milestones" from pictures and her own remembrance of Lady Dorothy Neville of England, a woman to whom King Edward left one hundred thousand pounds because of the entertainment she had given him and others by her wit and humor.

Miss Alden has lived in England for a number of years and was personally acquainted with Lady Neville.

McHENRY GETS SIX MONTHS AND FINE.

The Manchester Signal says: Wednesday morning Judge Stephenson sentenced Ern McHenry to pay a fine of $200 and costs and to serve six months in the county jail.

McHenry was charged with beating up Marshal Sowers May 11th while Sowers was taking a prisoner to jail. McHenry was indicted for assault with intent to kill.

The first trial resulted in a hung jury; and the second jury agreed on assault and battery.

Kentucky's Great Trotting Meeting at Lexington, October 3 to 15, is certain to draw an attendance from all parts of the U. S. A. and Canada. The purses aggregate $80,000, average $2,000, and not one is for less than $1,000, with the Kentucky Futurity (for 2-year-olds) worth $14,000, The Futurity (2-year-olds) $7,000, The Transylvania $5,000, The Castleton $4,000, The Walnut Hall Cup $3,000 and The Phoenix Hotel Prize $3,000. Every really first class horse in America and Canada is eligible to start. What races they will make!

While predicting that The Kentucky Futurity will be one of the greatest colt races ever witnessed, the best judges of trotting contend that the races for The Walnut Hall Cup (Monday, October 3), The Transylvania (Thursday, October 6) and The Castleton (Tuesday, October 11) the three big events for trotters of all ages will be bitterly fought out in time so fast that they will be the talk of the whole country for years and that one of the three will go down in trotting history as the "Race of the Century."

Practically all of Lexington's hotel space has been reserved; and every private box—98 in number—in the grand stand has been sold to purchasers from 21 states and Canada.

DETAILS OF PEEBLES SHOOTING TOLD BY COUNTY PAPER

Trouble Started in Man Who Was Killed Objecting To the Arrest of a Friend By Adams County Authorities on Tuesday.

The Manchester Signal tells this story of the fatal shooting at Peebles, Adams county, Ohio, on Tuesday of this week:

Estel Hughes, 26, of Rarden, was shot and killed Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock by Marshal George Hook of Peebles when, it is claimed, Hughes interfered with Deputy Marshal John Smittle who was attempting to arrest Howard Cordrey on a charge of bootlegging. Hughes was shot three times in the stomach, death coming almost instantly.

According to the report of the shooting from Peebles the officers have been watching Cordrey and his friend Hughes for some time. Tuesday morning when the young men came to town the officers kept close watch on them and about 10 o'clock Deputy Marshal Smittle came across Cordrey on Main street, in front of Hunter's pharmacy. Hughes, who chanced to be nearby objected to the officer arresting Cordrey and started trouble. It is claimed, Marshal Hook came upon the scene about this time and rushed to the assistance of Smittle. Smittle had a gun on him and handed it to Hook who was having his hands full with Hughes. The men were within a few feet of each other when Marshal Hook fired, the three bullets taking effect in Hughes' stomach.

The body of Hughes was removed to a Peebles undertaking establishment while Cordrey was taken to the village jail where he is held on a charge of bootlegging. It is claimed that a small bottle of moonshine was found on him at the jail. Cordrey is a single man and is a farm hand from near Lawshie.

According to Marshal Hook he only fired when he thought Hughes was going to do him harm, and he was not sure the man did not carry a gun. Hughes had struck Smittle before Hook reached his side it is alleged.

Hughes was formerly a resident of Peebles and only moved away about six weeks ago. He moved from that village to Rarden, where he leaves a wife and one child. He was a laborer. The shooting caused a great deal of excitement in Peebles, the scene of the trouble being on the main thoroughfare and the center of all business conducted in the village.

Henderson, Ky., Sept. 8. — Officers are securing the western section of Henderson county in an effort to arrest Perry Sutton, who shot and wounded Tom Harris, his wife and daughter, and a negro farm laborer with a shotgun.
